

I am writing to voice my opinion why K-Love should remain on national and regional radio stations. First of all, K-Love is listener sponsored which confirms that listeners not only "listen" to this station but invest our own money into keeping it on the air. Second, K-Love is encouraging and uplifting. Its emphasis is on the word of God which makes a difference in my life and many other lives -- it offers hope not despair, encouragement not destruction, love not hate, courage to stand up for what is right and not settle for wrong, life instead of suicide. It is acceptable for the whole family to hear. Listening to other stations I have experienced crude jokes, sexual references, lyrics referring to killing others, all which are not uplifting to adults, much less acceptable for children to hear. And we wonder why there is so much violence in the world. I ask you to thoughtfully consider the significant consequences of taking K-Love off the air and what it might cost in the long run if LPFM is given priority over FM translator service.
